STEP 2: DO YOUR RESEARCH

- Say hello to Google. Find everything you can on that subject.
- Start with the large sources.
- Dig a little further. What other information can you find?
- Search for the opposing viewpoint to get more perspective.
- Look for numbers, statistics, and data.
- Choose a metaphor that can turn your data into a story.

STEP 3: GATHER VISUAL INSPIRATION

- Find examples of charts and graphics.
- Check out Pinterest, Dribbble, or Behance for design inspiration.

What do your readers seem to be drawn to visually?

Look at your examples. What was successful about them?

Look at them again. What could be improved?

STEP 4: DESIGN

Evaluate your time. Do you want to design the infographic yourself or hire someone?

Option #1: Outsourcing.

- Check out sites like 99Designs, Fiverr, and DesignCrowd.
- Do your research on what they all entail as far as the design process.
- If a design contest isn't the route you'd like to go, check out Dribbble or Behance to find a designer directly.
- Set your price, and communicate well with your designer.
- Share your goals, who your audience is, and any additional specifications.

- Venngage, Get About, Visme.co, or Canva
- Choose a main color scheme with Adobe Kuler.
- Organize your story into three major sections, and then design each one.
Fill in the captions, details within those major sections.
Don't forget about your intro and conclusion.

STEP 5: REVIEW

- Display your infographic in either print or digital format.
- Take a step back from your infographic to ask yourself:
  - What do you see?
  - Is anything standing out too much?
  - What needs to stand out more?
  - Does the story flow nicely from start to finish?
- Ask family, friends, and co-workers for their advice.

STEP 6: COMPLETE THE DESIGN

- Take all your feedback and fine tune your infographic.
- Add a call to action that matches the goal of your infographic.
- Add the resources used at the far bottom of your infographic.
- Add any branding elements such as your name or logo.
